The financial instrument described herein is based on MSCI® index.

The certificate provides the opportunity for early redemption from the 2nd year and enables investors to obtain a yield between 12.50% and 37.50% (6.25% annually). If the underlying index quotes at or above the termination level at one of the respective valuation dates, the certificate is redeemed prior to the maturity with an attractive yield.

How the certificate works

At the initial valuation date the starting value of the underlying index (closing price) equal to the termination level is fixed and the barrier is determined. At the annual valuation dates the closing price of the underlying index is compared to the termination level and one of the following scenarios may occur:

Annual valuation dates	Is the price of the underlying index equal/greater to...	Notional redemption*	Coupon payment*
May 07, 2026	100% of the starting value ▶ yes ▼ no	100%	+ 12.50%
May 06, 2027	100% of the starting value ▶ yes ▼ no	100%	+ 18.75%
May 05, 2028	100% of the starting value ▶ yes ▼ no	100%	+ 25.00%
May 04, 2029	100% of the starting value ▶ yes ▼ no	100%	+ 31.25%
May 06, 2030	100% of the starting value ▶ yes ▼ no	100%	+ 37.50%

*in % of the nominal value

In case no early redemption occurred and the barrier...

- a) was never touched/undercut by the underlying index, the investor obtains 100% of the nominal value at the maturity date and no coupon paid out.
- b) was touched/undercut by the underlying index, the redemption at the maturity date is effected according to the performance of the underlying index and no coupon is paid out.

Opportunities

- The opportunity to achieve an attractive yield even with zero performance of the underlying index.
- Protection against decline in the underlying index up to the barrier level. Termination level has priority over the barrier.
- You can sell the certificate at any time during its term, the certificate has no management fees.

Risks

- The price of a certificate is subject to various influencing factors, including the performance of the underlying, its volatility, expected dividends, as well as the level of interest rates. This price may fall below the issue price and fluctuate significantly, particularly if the underlying index is close to the barrier.
- If the barrier is touched/undercut, investors might be entirely subject to market risk at the maturity date, without any protective mechanism.
